

Taken from the front pages of my book Depression Defeated. Albert Friend.

My friend the author:

He has always found a place in my heart and life since the first time we met. First of all he is real. His Christianity out shines his sterling character because they are connected. Christ is the center of his being. I have all of his books and a file where I keep his monthly writings, “Apostolic Cutting Edge”. I have found solace in his writings as well as hundreds of other pastors and friends too.

His style is unique and down to earth. No one has to wonder what he is talking about because he makes it so understandable.

Wm Sciscoe Testimony:

During the last few years of my life I have dealt with some major issues To mention only a couple of them, a major stroke and the next year open heart surgery. I have come through them with no lasting scars that you are able to see on the out side. However, the mornings have proven to be a test of my faith in God.

Nearly every morning I would wake up and the marks of severe depression were present. After an hour or more of praying in the spirit I could then face the day and go about my pastoral responsibilities. It occurred to me that my friend could share something with me. Knowing that hundreds of other people had the same problem...

... and that there was a good possibility he may have had the same thing all of us battle. So I asked him to write an article for the “Apostolic Cutting Edge”. He did, and it was so helpful. Very soon, the book Depression Defeated was in the offing. When I read the manuscript I was elated at the information that was given. They were not just words but words filled with purpose and anointing. Then I knew that he had tasted of the torment and struggle that so many of us had endured. Now we have answers and facts that will carry us into the arms of a loving Christ who is in deed the master of all spirits, there we can find peace and victory.

Albert Friend has indeed dissected the mannerisms of a spirit that has gone from the work place to the high echelons of government to the inner workings and sacred places of the Church. Depression has cost employers billions of dollars, caused divorces and has been the sad commentary to many funerals.

As you read this anointed book think of your friends and acquaintances who would benefit greatly by reading it. Then do them a favor, buy one for them and let them be set free.
